More than 3,500 financial institutions dealt with skimming-related debit card compromises in 2025, a slight increase over the widespread impact seen in 2024.

FICO's latest data brings encouraging news – the first two months of 2026 show a decrease in compromise events and cards compromised compared to the same period last year. While these early indicators are promising, financial institutions should remain vigilant as skimming patterns can shift quickly, and seasonal trends may still emerge throughout the year.

HOW TO AVOID GOVERNMENT GRANT SCAMS THAT OFFER FREE MONEY FOR PERSONAL EXPENSES

Scammers make up all kinds of bogus stories to steal your personal information, or your money. Some go negative and make up a problem that doesn't really exist. Others try a positive spin and say you won something, like free money made available through a government grant or program.

How do you know if these promises are legit – or a scam?

Here are five common signs of a fake government grant scam:

1. Scammers contact you out of the blue (by phone, email, text message, or social media) and say you qualify for free money from the government.
2. Scammers claim you can use government grant money for personal needs, like paying bills, education expenses, home repairs, or paying off debts.
3. Scammers ask for your personal information – like your Social Security number – to see if you qualify for a government grant.
4. Scammers ask for your financial information – like your bank account number – to deposit money from the government grant.
5. Scammers say you must pay processing or other fees to get your money – and insist you send them cash, gift cards, a wire transfer, or cryptocurrency.

Knowing these truths about real government grants will help you avoid a scam:

- Government grants are typically awarded to organizations that applied for a grant and are for a very specific purpose.
- Government agencies won't contact you by phone, text, social media, or email about a grant that you didn't apply for.
- Government grants are not awarded for personal needs. (Learn about government programs that may help you pay for personal expenses, like food, housing, and health care, at usa.gov/benefit-finder.)
- Government agencies that award grants will not demand that you pay to get a grant. To learn more about real government grants and how to apply, go to grants.gov.

If you see a scam, report it to the Federal Trade Commission at ReportFraud.ftc.gov.

If suspected fraud contact, Sheridan Community FCU right away! You can also go on our website or the app and turn your card off.

Never give out your debit card information to anyone you do not know.

If you suspect anything please call us or someone else to verify the merchant.

I hate small talk. I wanna talk about aliens, the 16 digits on your credit card, the 3 numbers on the back, and the expiration date
